Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 10 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Very windy with blustery showers.

This Evening and Tonight:
Very windy overnight with gales in places, especially over the Pennines. Frequent heavy, blustery showers will push through, turning more persistent later in the night. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Thursday:
Very windy with blustery showers, these most frequent across western hills, perhaps turning wintry over the highest tops. Some sunny spells in the east. Feeling chilly. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Friday and Saturday, windy with sunny spells and occasional blustery showers, wintry on hills. Some heavier rain early hours of Saturday. Sunday, drier and brighter but further rain later. Breezy.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.